Christie's Amsterdam held the most successful Post-War & Contemporary Art sale of its history, achieving a total of €11,035,775. Peter van der Graaf, Head of Post-War & Contemporary Art, Amsterdam comments: "We are thrilled with the overwhelming international interest for this sale, demonstrating the overall strength of the market. The interest for our classics such as the CoBrA artists continues to be solid and the results for Zero even exceeded our expectations. The multiple highlights in this sale makes it difficult to choose a specific work, but if we have to: the result for the work by Dutch artist René Daniëls proves that he finally receives the well-deserved international recognition."
